FIRE PREVENTION DAY IS OCT. 9TH

Oct. 7-13 Will be Observed as Fire and Accident Prevention Week.

Fire Chief C. J. Murphy has received notice that the week of October 7-13 will be designated as Fire and Accident Prevention Week as it has been for a number of years. October 9 is the anniversary of the great Chicago fire and it has been observed and designated by the President of the United States and the executives of the various states as Fire and Accident Prevention day. It will be observed here in various ways.

According to information received by Chief Murphy the annual fire loss has reached a record of $22,380,000, much more than the cost of building the Panama Canal. "Careless smokers are costing the United States $165,000 a week," says the industrial commission in a recent bulletin. "The ordinary man lights his cigar or cigarette and throws the lighted match aside as if he were throwing away a piece of paper. He thinks no more of the matter."

"Fifteen thousand human lives are sacrificed in fires in this country annually and more than half of these are such things as children lost in dwelling house fires. A thousand and one thoughtless acts contribute to the great waste and human suffering. The careless pouring of kerosene on a sluggish fire, leaving current turned on in electrical appliances, locking children in while going off to school, leaving matches and such things as burning conveniences, throwing matches into the waste basket and so on incidentally."

Now is the time to think, to act, to remove all fire hazards from the home, shop and factory, and to make all places of residences, employment, amusement, and instruction more safe."

STOVE IS WANTED IN EMERGENCY CASE

Who has a laundry stove or a small cook stove to donate to a woman who needs it badly? The case is being handled by the Salvation Army. The woman for whom the donation is asked was deserted about three months ago by her husband and authorities have been unable to find him. She has a baby one year old and expects another in January. She has been staying with friends but can no longer give her a home. A room was secured for the winter, rent free by the Salvation Army, and all necessary furniture has been supplied with the exception of the stove. She hopes to do sewing and other work to supplement the aid extended by the Salvation Army. Later she will work regularly while her little ones are cared for in the day nursery.

SEARCHING DEEP FOR REASONS WHY THEATER FELL IN RUIN HEAP

In an accurate manner. No less than three different concerns participated in the drawing up of the plans and there has been no definite evidence to date that any one checked back on those plans to determine if the trusses were as strong as the plans were sufficient to carry the load of the roof, or that sufficient bearing surface was planned to hold the trusses in place. It is probable that this there is evident a glaring difference of interpretation or reading of the architectural plans as to the support for the "pent house," erected on the southwest corner of the building to house the ventilating system machinery and heating coils. Also it developed that the manner of joining the truss work in the brick wall on top of the planers did not conform to the designs in the architectural drawings.

Changes in Plans.
About the most important evidence being taken is that relating to this pent house. Originally this structure was planned for the southeastern corner of the theater but was changed to the southwestern corner where the crash first started. The architects declared that their plans called for a heavy concrete slab at the base of the pent house to be the support, connecting with the center of the angling truss to the south and west walls. The concrete engineer did not read the plans, the architect said. The fact, it is claimed that instead of a concrete slab for support there was a brick wall built up in the space between the truss and the bottom of the pent house.

The theory advanced is that the additional weight of this pent house was great enough to cause the truss to give, shearing off the connections in the walls and then to start the roof tumbling down. Engineers differed as to whether this was logical in that the west wall stood the shock while the east wall covered up. It was admitted by the engineers and architects that except for a stronger truss there was no additional support provided for in the walls. The planers placed the weight of the heavy pent house.

The walls were 13 inches thick and the pillars were four inches thick. The trusses were 17 inches thick. The trusses were extended into the brick a total of 14 inches. The architectural plans called for the truss work to rest on a concrete base. Instead of the brick. Instead it is testified that on top of the planers there had been constructed a concrete block on which the truss rested. The architects refused to state whether the concrete base was more safe than the other method, called for in the plan.

Meinard Tullgren, one of the brothers of the architectural firm from Milwaukee, who prepared three series of plans for the building, remained practically silent. The first witness called during the afternoon. He was under great nervous tension all during the ordeal. He had nothing to do with the plans. His witness stand came out the day after the collapse and only made a rough inspection.

"What did you find out?" "I didn't find out anything," he concluded. "I didn't find out anything."

Under the examination of Attorney Dougherty, Tullgren admitted that he was ill that day and spent most of the time in the hotel lobby.

"What caused that crash?" asked Dougherty. "I don't know. I cannot figure what did it do down."

"Well, does an ordinary building of rather simple construction like the Saxe theatre fall down of its own accord?" asked the attorney.

"No—according to the plans the building should have stood up," answered Tullgren.

At this point the counsel raised the point of who furnished the structural steel and prepared the plans for putting in the steel work. The witness answered it was the C. Hennelke Co., Milwaukee. It further developed that their steel work plans presented to the Tullgren firm were sent back unchanged.

When asked to describe the pent house, Tullgren consulted the plans and declared the unit to be 20 feet 8 inches long, by 22 feet wide, and 13 feet high. "The plans call for the house to rest on a concrete slab, with the ends resting on the steel trusses and the south and west walls. The weight was distributed on the walls and truss."

Plans Not Checked.
The witness admitted that the engineering problems relating to stress and bearing surface were not figured.

Herbert Tullgren, the other brother of the firm, was next called. He told that three sets of plans were made for the Saxe brothers during the years 1921, 1922, and the last spring. The first two were complete in detail and used by the Saxe brothers in building. There was no written contract between the Tullgren firm and the Saxe Brothers over the work on the building.

The witness stated that the plans for the structural steel work were not checked in their office but that Willis made his own contract for the steel with the Hennelke concern. No one in the architect's office made a detailed check on the technical points involved in whether the supports would hold or not.

"Is it good business for an architect to send out plans which are not checked or without the knowledge of the carrying load?" demanded the attorney.

"We had nothing to do with the structural steel plans—they were out of our hands," replied the witness.

Never mind about that, let us see the plans of the theatre go out of your office without knowing the stress or pressure to be carried?" "We did not know that," he replied.

"Well, you knew the contract, made out in your office, called for a specified roof, the walls of such a thickness and also the size of the pillars, did you not?" "Yes, and the pillars were heavy enough for the load."

Questioned further Herbert Tullgren admitted that the steel drawings were not checked for sufficiency in his office and the plans were not fully complete regarding the pent house and other details.

"Did you give any inspection to the building while it was under contract?" "No—except as Grossman came down to check estimates. It was as your business to approve or disapprove of the structural steel plans," asked Dougherty.

"The plans came in but did not have enough information. They were sent back marked unchecked."

the Hennelke Co. without being checked until after the accident." It was further testified that the architectural plans as produced in court, the same sent to the state commission were "not sufficient for the contractor."

Differ from Plans.
The witness then declared that the construction of the piers where the trusses rested was different than called for in the plans.

"I am not prepared to say—but I know that it was not called for in the plans, the construction of the base of the piers was changed." It was further testified that the contract between the Saxe Brothers and Willis was made out in the Tullgren office and that a number of other contractors bid for the job.

C. J. Honning, chief designer for the Tullgren office was the next witness. He told of making out the sketches in pencil.

"Should Have Held."
"In my opinion the trusses and walls were strong enough to do the work," declared the witness.

E. L. Grossman, general superintendent of the architect firm, was called. He told of coming to Janesville at the request of Saxe Brothers to check on estimates made for extra work.

"It was not inspections, but rather details of checking estimates so as to advise if the prices quoted were excessive," stated the witness.

This witness declared that changing the position of the pent house from the east side to the west side would not make any difference.

"The truss was stronger where the pent house rested but there was no difference in the walls," declared Grossman.

"Was that slab put in?" "I am sure it was," answered Grossman, who later qualified this statement.

This witness also refused to state that the change made in putting a concrete base for the trusses in the walls and pillars made any difference.

"I do not know whether they weakened or added to the strength of the piers but I know it was not proper according to the plans."

Advance Theory.
H. S. Chapin, a roofing engineer, who designed the roofing work, told of preparing plans for this work. There was a three-inch slab of concrete on top of the planers.

During the latter part of the hearing there was much discussion with Chapin regarding the pent house construction and what would happen if the slab failed. Chapin proved so much for the truss and walls to bear the witness expressed an opinion that the failure of the pent house would have wrecked the west wall, leaving the remaining structure in jeopardy.

M. E. Backes, former Janesville architect, who is aiding Attorney Dougherty, differed. There was a live discussion and exchange of opinions around the table on which the plans were spread out, by the attorneys and building men, with no one getting any definite information out of the various claims and counter-claims when Coroner Lynn Whaley called a halt.

The trend of questions was to show that the plans for the support of the pent house were not allowed at that time in witness of concrete slab a brick wall was built up from the structure.

No one, it appears from the testimony thus far offered, was obliged to check all the plans. The one made by the architect, those of the steel firm, and lastly, those of the concrete engineer. Apparently the different builders were not in unison in that they did not have their plans supervised. There was no commercial quarrel between them, rather an alleged laxity to have needed construction information obtained before the building was allowed to proceed or plans checked.

Jury Asks Questions.
Questions from time to time were asked by City Attorney Cunningham and by the state commissioner or Wilcox, who was present throughout the hearing and since the state was supposed to provide the responsible inspecting office. It is deeply interested. Many questions from time to time asked questions on some points not made clear to them. It was nearly six o'clock when the investigation was adjourned until Wednesday.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

Umpires for the two games in the industrial baseball league Saturday were chosen at a meeting Thursday night. Charles Enckert will umpire the Parker Pen-Chevrolet and Umpire Burke the Parker-Tank corps game.

Employed boys met for regular gym work for the first time this season Thursday night. The group is planning to have its own hockey team and in order to secure the necessary funds will probably give a minstrel show later in the season.

Dell Trussell and Otto Ambrose, members of the employed boys group assisted in the program at the country club meeting Tuesday night by giving a gymnastic dance.

"Burney" Daily will be present at the next gym class. He has been kept away by an injured arm.

The local Y. M. C. A. has recently become a member of the Athletic League of the Y. M. C. A. of United States and the membership certificate will be received within a few days. The new national organization is an outgrowth of the A. L. N. A. Local rulings and records will be sanctioned by the A. L. U. S. hereafter.

All gym classes will be under way next week. The juniors will meet for work Saturday morning.

The industrial basketball league conducted last year will be started again.

GIRL RESERVE WORK GROWING

20 Percent of Girl Students in High School Enrolled—More Coming in.

By FLORENCE SLOW HYDE.
Girl Reserve work has started off with enthusiasm in the Janesville high school this year.

A larger room has been assigned to this organization for club meetings and will be open each noon as a rest and recreation room for all high schools, whether Girl Reserves or not. About 20 percent of the girl students are already actively identified with one or the other of the three Girl Reserve clubs, and there is reason to believe that the membership will grow during the year.

Senior high Reserves meet at 4 p. m. each Thursday, and junior high girls meet at 3:50 each Wednesday. Meetings are one hour in length. The Grace Dodge club is made up of girls who find it more convenient to meet during the noon hour, than after school.

Officers elected near the close of the last school year have been at work during the summer mapping out a program of interesting and worthwhile activities. When the senior high club held their first business meeting of the year a few days ago, the members were given an opportunity to decide as to the purpose that would be adopted for the coming year. Forty senior high girls many of whom are leaders in their high school activities, adopted with sincere enthusiasm the following commendable purpose: "As Girl Reserves we aim to promote a spirit of simple friendliness and helpfulness in our high school and community to help every girl to live an abundant life that she may be a Christian citizen of the world."

All Girl Reserves have as their purpose: "To find and give the best." Following is the Girl Reserve code: "As a Girl Reserve I will be graceful in manner, impartial in judgment, ready for service, helpful to friends, reaching towards the best, earnest in purpose, seeking the beautiful, eager for knowledge, reverent to God, victorious over self, dependable, sincere at all times."

The only condition of membership is to subscribe to the purpose and code. No sectarian lines of any kind are observed though the spirit of Christianity is the foundation on which the organization is built.

Miss Helen King, community girls' work secretary, emphasized the Y. W. C. A. under the provisions of the Loveloy trust, has the general oversight of the Girl Reserve activities.

Miss Eunice Nelson, dean of girls, is faculty adviser for the senior club. Miss Ellen Larson is adviser for the junior club, and Miss Mabel Keesey for the Grace Dodge club. Mrs. Allen P. Loveloy, Jr., heads the Y. W. C. A. girls' work committee, and gives much time and effort to her task.

List of Officers.
Officers of the different clubs are as follows:

Senior high club: President, Ruth Fisher; vice president, Beulah Ramsom; secretary, Marjorie Earle; treasurer, Mildred Jensen; committee chairman, ring, Emily Shield; publicity, Clement Wright; service, Ruth Austin; social, Jean Sutherland; program, Beulah Ellis.

Junior high club: President, Charlotte Clark; vice president, Alvin Greinart; secretary, Ruth Clark; treasurer, Beulah Waldman; committee chairman, service, Esther Dundy; program, Charlotte Clark.

Junior high club: President, Dorothy Reeder; secretary, Virginia Earle; treasurer, Doris Jensen; committee chairman, Mildred Jensen; publicity, service, Clara Churchill; membership, Alderine Dersch; triangle leaders, Marjorie, Raakins, Marthel Dykeman, Helen Curry, Nora Gaulke.

WELL HERE'S HERMAN TALKING TO DOCTORS ABOUT PRESCRIPTIONS

Madison—Herman Sachs, prohibition commissioner, warned doctors that the issuance of prescriptions for intoxicating liquor to minors, without written consent of the parents, will result in prosecution. He has been advised of some cases where boys have been able to obtain liquor through aid of doctors.

The prohibition law makes it a punishable offense for any doctor to sell or give a prescription to any person under 21 years of age, unless that person is suffering from some ailment requiring medical aid and unless the written consent of parents is obtained.

TAKE SAND CARS FOR HAULING COAL

Interstate Commerce Board Requisitions All Open Cars Possible.

Grain and general freight hauling is picking up on the C. M. & St. Paul road and sand and gravel hauling is falling off, due to the fact that the interstate commerce commission requisitioned all cars possible for handling coal. The railroad company had been hauling 50 cars of ballast daily during the summer months but has been forced to give up those cars to the commission. It is possible that the commercial gravel pits in Janesville may have to curtail because of the order of the commission in regard to coal hauling.

Improvements Well Liked.
George Ryan, foreman at the St. Paul roundhouse on Pearl street says there have been only two changes in the personnel at the roundhouse. The same men who were working there before the strike last year are still on the job. Two new men were hired Friday for the job: William P. Pessell and the Grubbs. Mr. Ryan says the employees are well pleased with the lockers, washroom and showers which were installed some time ago. The washroom is large and clean looking and warm in winter.

Gates Are Broken.
Repairs to the watchman's tower on Jackson street have been completed. A new cement foundation was put in, timbers were replaced. Some new planks were laid on the walk at the Five Points according to Edward Dunn, watchman. The gates on Madison street were smashed Thursday night by an auto which failed to heed the watchman's warning. No serious damage was done. Alvin Henderson, N. W. general agent, and F. W. Zimmerman, St. Paul, have returned from Vancouver, Wash., where they attended the ticket agents' convention.

THEY WERE GIANTS IN THOSE DAYS

REVIEW OF THE INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON FOR SEPTEMBER 30, 1923.

Review Lesson.

WM. SOUTHERN, JR.

A man with many letters after his name recently assumed the Bible chair in a denominational college. Naturally the people with whom he was connected were interested in his line of teaching. He intended to teach, but a reporter asked him, "What would you like to teach?" He replied, "I expect to teach as Paul and Peter would teach."

Whether he actually made this answer or not is beside the question. I would like very much to know how Paul and Peter would teach. The great man who the Christian church have made if they could be here in the year of our Lord 1923. How would Luke vary his story of the shipwreck if he knew that the world was round, not flat, if he could see our great steamships and if he knew about our instruments used now in sailing the seas? What would Peter say if he could visit with us for a few days and watch our present day fishermen start out in the morning in an airplane in order to locate the great shoals of fishes and direct a gasoline motor boat to the good huntings? More than most anything I would like to hear Paul make an address after he had been to a present day denominational church convention and had listened to the arguments of the various sects and what he meant twenty centuries ago.

Paul was impatient with literalists and ritualism. He cut through the strings which the new church tried to bind about him and preached Christ the Savior and him crucified. He invited everybody regardless of race, color or previous condition to join the church. Paul was a great Democrat and believed in the Democracy of human kind.

NO U. S. SUBSIDY FOR FARM RELIEF

Can do Little to Boost Wheat Price, Stand of Officials.

By DAVID L. WHELAN
Copyright, 1923, by Janesville Daily Gazette.

Washington—Farm relief so far as government appropriation of funds or any other form of direct or indirect subsidy is not going to be granted. Gestures of aid and sympathy will be made but at bottom most government officials are convinced that little or nothing can be done to boost the price of wheat.

The committee of bankers from the wheat growing states comprising the wheat growers' association, which is now in conference with the department of agriculture, are convinced that the government can do little to boost the price of wheat. The committee of bankers from the wheat growing states comprising the wheat growers' association, which is now in conference with the department of agriculture, are convinced that the government can do little to boost the price of wheat.

For one thing, the government is satisfied that it has done all that it can possibly do in the way of extending credits. More money has been lent by the war finance corporation to the wheat growing states than has been given in proportion to other parts of the country. New facilities of credit have been created by the government at the last session of congress.

What then remains for the farmers? The government is satisfied that it has done all that it can possibly do in the way of extending credits. More money has been lent by the war finance corporation to the wheat growing states than has been given in proportion to other parts of the country. New facilities of credit have been created by the government at the last session of congress.

But the question asked in Washington is whether the farmers want the government to take a loss for it. The world price of wheat is now about 10 cents a bushel. The government is satisfied that it has done all that it can possibly do in the way of extending credits. More money has been lent by the war finance corporation to the wheat growing states than has been given in proportion to other parts of the country. New facilities of credit have been created by the government at the last session of congress.

Officials point out that the price of wheat today is higher than it was a year ago and that prices are bound to rise still further. Europe is buying from hand-to-mouth and currencies abroad are fluctuating due to unstable political and economic conditions. The settlement of the war in the Ruhr is confidently expected on here to improve the situation through the natural benefit that will accrue to the purchasing power of all Europe, unless of course revolution develops in Germany.

No special session of congress is in the offing because the administration has not yet anything to propose that can be cured by legislation. Secretary Wallace of the department of agriculture, Secretary Hoover, Bureau of the war finance corporation and all the men in the government who know anything about the farm situation are striving hard to find some solution that will help the farmer.

The political power of the farm bloc is appreciated. The government is sympathetic and helpful as possible. If the farmers want to restrict wheat to the American market, they must get rid of the surplus somewhere or else get protected price. There is little doubt that western senators and members of the house will come back here with proposals to have the government finance the wheat crop, but on the face of things today the proposal will not get administration backing. The hope here is that the government will make material improvement when congress reconvenes and that the natural laws of economics will cure the difficulty.

NO NEW CLEWS ON STOLEN WRIGHT CAR
No further clues have been uncovered by police in connection with the theft of the car of R. A. Wright, 1009 South Terrace street, from South Main street, Thursday night, the car opening. The car was a 1924 Ford touring, not a 1923 Ford sedan, as was published. Mr. Wright reports. He had taken special precautions to prevent the theft. The car was always after the newest cars, and had turned off the gasoline, but this proved insufficient to stop the taking of it.

SOCIAL DISEASE DECREASES HERE; STATE MAN IN CITY
Dr. G. E. Hoyt, Madison, deputy state health officer, spent Thursday in Janesville in a check-up with Miss Leona Ludwig, state social worker, on delinquent cases. Those who have been ordered to attend the clinic Tuesdays and Fridays for treatment but who have not been doing so, were reproached by Dr. Hoyt and warned to resume their attendance or be taken to court.

The chief difficulty of Miss Ludwig, who is stationed here throughout the year, is in getting those afflicted to attend the clinic regularly. She has already had several in court for not doing so.

Social disease is gradually declining in Janesville although the decrease in number of cases is hardly noticeable at times. The number in the city now, however, represents a large decline from World War days, Miss Ludwig says.

WARD FREE AFTER SENSATIONAL TRIAL

Jubilant Spectators Riot to Congratulate Victor After Weird Action.

White Plains, N. Y.—Walter S. Ward, acquitted yesterday of the charge of murder of Clarence Peters, former sailor, was at home with his wife and three children, a face man, a jury which again returned an indictment. In all these proceedings the black-mail secret never was hatched. It was not even based at the trial for the defense did not call a witness and Ward was not placed on the stand.

Unparalleled Scene.
A scene almost without parallel was enacted in the court room when the verdict was announced. The throng of spectators rose to its feet, pushed and shoved its way over chairs, benches and the railing to Ward's side. Most of the jubilant ones were women and many of them were members of the fashionable colony of West Chester county. They grasped Ward's hand and they threw their arms about his neck and some tried to kiss him.

The trial was the climax of a long series of events in connection with the killing. Peters body was found and there was scarcely a paragraph's mention of the incident in the newspapers. A few days later the body was identified. It was a "nobody" and that incident also virtually escaped notice.

No Defense Witnesses.
Then a few days later Ward's attorneys came forward with a statement that their client had killed Peters in self defense as the result of a blackmail plot against the wealthy baker's son.

The case leaped into prominence. Ward was indicted the first indictment was dismissed, then Governor Smith called a special grand jury which again returned an indictment. In all these proceedings the black-mail secret never was hatched. It was not even based at the trial for the defense did not call a witness and Ward was not placed on the stand.

"Pa," said Clarence, "what do they mean by a dark horse?"
"A black one, of course, you idiot," growled his dad, who was busy reading an uncensored best seller. Cincinnati Enquirer.

CONCERNING BATTERY CONNECTIONS
Solid wire is best for a battery and B battery connections as battery current flows through the entire wire. Radio current which flows in the antenna and through all parts ahead of the detector remains on the surface of the wire, so that stranded wire or large solid wire gives it the best path.

ECONOMICAL INSULATION
Instead of spaghetti for insulation, especially around a receiver, the use of a roll of tubular tape, such as can be obtained at the five and ten-cent stores, which women use for drawing strings, if dipped into paraffine and left to dry, is suitable and much cheaper.

SILENCE BLOCKS INQUIRY IN DEATH

Woman in the case, but refused to throw light on the shooting.

Miss Stoddard is thoroughly American. She never wears Indian costume, and she is a cultured young woman with an attractive personality.

Baffled by the reticence of the Indian villagers, the coroner and district attorney refused to call an inquest. They called Thornton a suicide.

But Thornton's relatives, are sure the boy was murdered.

"Signing Up for a Good Figure"

There's no question as to the winner of the title competition this week. One stood head and shoulders above the others.

"Signing Up for a Good Figure" Arise, regulars, and salute this week's champ—Mrs. M. W. Lewis, 270 East Main street, Evansville. Mrs. Lewis has won before and she seldom fails to get in among the honorables.

Look up the picture again and then consider the winning title. Deserves the $250, doesn't it? Double meetings are exacting structures to build on in this 171 game.

We like many of the others, too.

Among them are: "Touching Memories," "It's Not the Original Cost, But the Upkeep," "Put Up and Shut Up," "The Dictator," "He Loved Me Wisely, But Too Well," "Finance and Finance," "Signing a Treaty of Peace."

We may be mistaken, but judging by the hard hollid expression and attitude of the dame in the picture, we doubt if it is a case of daughter and dad, as several titles submitted would indicate. Looks as if scandal has intruded into our page.

At night, line up for our next Postal card ink, not more than a dozen words. Thursday noon deadline—remember these rules.

Lincoln Highway Through Iowa in Poor Condition

Westward Hel seems to be the motto of many people this fall, according to Mr. and Mrs. Walter Helms, who arrived safely in Denver, Sept. 26. They report that 20 to 30 cars a day are traveling on every highway leading to California and nearly all of them are bound for Los Angeles or vicinity.

The Lincoln highway, through Iowa, is in very bad condition, there being about 100 miles of muddy, almost impassable roads. Wrecked cars along the way, or cars in the ditch were common sights, but the Helms party had good luck and got through the bad places in good shape.

They were four days going through Iowa but when they arrived in Nebraska they found fine roads and good weather.

The Overland tourist camp at Denver, a very extensive and well equipped place, has accommodations for several thousand people. It has a postoffice, market, grocery store, repair shop for automobiles, shower baths and laundry. A playground equipped with swings and all kinds of play apparatus keeps the children happy.

All of the party, which includes Mr. and Mrs. Grville Palmer and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Palmer, Albion, Wis., are feeling fine and enjoying the trip. They left on Thursday for the next leg of their journey which is by way of Colorado Springs and Pueblo to Trinidad, where they take the Santa Fe trail to the west. The roads are reported to be in fine condition.

NEW TRAINING SCHOOL APPROVED

Madison — Gov. Blaine has approved contracts for the construction of a model training school building for the Soldiers Point normal. It has been learned. The new structure, which is expected to embody most up to date rural school construction features, is to cost $150,000.

The 1921 legislature authorized construction of the building, contracts for which have just been approved.

What was he, prince or pauper, and who could be this beautiful veiled woman that sought refuge from danger in such a strange marriage?

SOME OF THE RECENT IMPORTANT EVENTS OF THE WORLD TOLD IN PICTURES ON THIS PAGE

MACHINE GUNS, TWO-GUN MEN AND MARCHING KLUXERS THRILL OKLAHOMANS AS WALTON'S WAR WAXES WARMER

Above, "Buck" Garrett, famous Oklahoma sheriff and two-gun man, and machine gun crew stationed on top of building opposite city police station in Oklahoma City, Okla. Below, the Ku Klux Klan, in full regalia, marching through streets of Tulsa, Okla., despite efforts made to halt them. Ex-Sheriff "Bill" McCullough, who tried to stop parade, is at left of hooded horse.

Machine guns stationed at strategic points by Governor Walton, marching klansmen in full regalia defying the governor and famous two-gun men of the state joining the opposing ranks add color to the little war which Governor Walton has started in Oklahoma. Some war pictures from the front are shown above. "Buck" Garrett, Ardmore's picturesque ex-shepherd, is in Oklahoma City to fight by the side of Governor Walton. One of the governor's machine guns, in readiness to mow down his foes, is also shown. That the klansmen do not greatly fear the doctory governor is evidenced by the picture of marching Ku Kluxers in full regalia parading through the streets of Tulsa.

Archbishop Nathan Soderblom, photographed since his arrival in the U. S.

Archbishop Nathan Soderblom of Upsala, primate of the Church of Sweden, has come to the United States to lecture in the larger cities. He is an international figure in clerical circles.

Ada Blackjack, young Eskimo woman, is the only survivor of the party of five persons on Wrangel Island when the recent Noyce expedition reached the island. The party, consisting of Ada and four young American explorers, was part of the Stefansson expedition of 1921.

Louis J. Horowitz, president of a nationally known construction company, has left for Italy to ask permission of Premier Mussolini to rebuild ruined Messina. Horowitz, who was wiped out by a volcanic eruption, was part of the Stefansson expedition.

BULGARIAN GOVERNMENT TREMBLES AS REVOLT GROWS

While dispatches from Europe disagree as to the seriousness of the Bulgarian peasant insurrection, which began with the march of 100,000 peasants on Sofia, the capital, the revolt is believed to be spreading rapidly. That the Zankoff government is doomed is unquestioned. Revolt leaders say the uprising is an agrarian movement and not a communistic one.

Seven witnesses have testified before Assistant State's Attorney Wharton in Chicago that they swore falsely to affidavits "identifying" Mrs. Helen Ellwood Stokes, New York multi-millionaire's wife, as a familiar figure in Chicago's night life eighteen years ago. The testimony is the result of an investigation by the district attorney's office of Mrs. Stokes' charge of conspiracy against her husband.

With the American league pennant tucked away in the office safe and the season still a couple of weeks to go, the New York Yankees will have considerable time to tune themselves up for the world's series clash with the Giants or a rival that may beat McGraw's team out in the eleventh hour. Also the Yankee lads can figure on what they'll do with their slice of the world's series melon—the third helping in three years, albeit a loser's portion, and watch the Giants battle for first place.

Mrs. George Wise, nee Miss Catherine Radcliffe.

Half a dozen elopements within a week's time have left social Washington dazed. One of the speedy romances is that of George Wise and Miss Catherine Radcliffe. Miss Radcliffe, niece of Lord Glensly of London, was engaged to marry Lieut. Julian E. Brown of the U. S. marine corps. The wedding date had been set. Then, after a two-day romance with George Wise, son of a Washington dairyman, Miss Radcliffe broke her engagement to Brown and eloped to Baltimore with Wise, where they were wed.

Lieut. Alford J. Williams in his Curtiss racer just after making 249 miles an hour.

Alford J. Williams, former big league ball player and now one of the U. S. navy's best aviators, is talked of as favorite in the coming Pulitzer Ward flying meet in St. Louis, Mo., as a result of his spectacular trial flight over the electrically timed course.

He was clocked at a speed of 249 miles per hour, the fastest made under the conditions under which he flew.

"George, you've just got to have a new photo taken of yourself. These old ones are terrible," said Queen Mary one morning. You know how it is. The king had to stand—or rather sit—for it. So here it is, the latest photo of Great Britain's ruler.

Mrs. Katherine Burns, of Milwaukee, Wisconsin, has been chosen to represent her city at the national convention of war mothers to be held in Kansas City early in October. Mrs. Burns sent three sons to the war, two being killed and the third suffering from shell shock and wounds.

Comes the rumor from Washington now that Edwin Denby is soon to retire as secretary of the navy and that Col. Theodore Roosevelt, Jr., now assistant secretary, will succeed him.

Despondent because of unpleasant notoriety in the Tyngsboro, Mass., "suicide murder mystery," William F. Bowen, real estate dealer and employer of Mrs. Alice Wolschendorf, the victim, attempted suicide. Dr. William M. Robb, Park Bay physician, is charged with the murder. He denies it.

MOTORISTS

Double Braking Efficiency Buick Four-Wheel Brakes

Buick four-wheel brakes, because they double the braking surface brought into action, increase the braking efficiency of the car practically 100 per cent.

The action is simple, positive, and rapid: A slight pressure on the service pedal (the method of operation is unchanged) and all four wheels are retarded—the car is quickly, smoothly and safely brought to a stop. With these proved Buick four-wheel brakes a stop is made in a much shorter distance with a minimum of skidding danger.

Obtaining braking friction at four contacts with the road increases the braking power and lessens the wear on each brake lining and each tire.

The 1924 Buick models, with four-wheel brakes, a more powerful engine, beautiful new bodies and numerous other advanced features fully exemplify the Buick policy of incorporating every improvement that will give greater safety, comfort and satisfaction to the owner.

WHEN BETTER AUTOMOBILES ARE BUILT, BUICK WILL BUILD THEM

The Trouble Shooter

Timely Tips for the Auto Owner.
By E. H. SCOTT.
Copyright 1923.

Most automobile owners like to have the engine adjusted so that when it is running, hardly a sound can be heard from it. Sometimes, however, this extreme silence may be at the sacrifice of economy and power, and may increase the cost of your overhauling and repair bills. This applies to one part of the engine only, the Valves.

If the clearance on the valve is adjusted TOO CLOSELY, the valve mechanism will be very silent, but the engine will not have the power and pep it should have, and the valves will require frequent grinding in. If the valve clearance is adjusted correctly, the valves should not require grinding in oftener than about once in every 5,000 miles.

Here is the reason why a clearance must be left between the valves and the tappets. All metals expand when heated, some more than others. When the heat of the explosion strikes the heads of the valves, it heats them up and of course the whole valve expands slightly. To take care of this expansion a slight space must be left between the bottom of the valve stem and the top of the valve tappet or rocker arm. If there is NO space here, as soon as the valve gets hot, it expands and cannot close properly, then leaks. This results in a loss of compression. The amount of clearance allowed varies on different engines. On a Packard, for instance, the clearance is .002 inch, or about the thickness of a sheet of newspaper, while on a Ford, the clearance is .020 inch, or about the thickness of two government post cards. The average clearance allowed in .004 inch for Intake Valves, and .006 inch for Exhaust Valves. After grinding in the valves, the clearance must be left slightly MORE than this until the engine has run about 500 miles, so as to allow the valves time to bed down properly, then they can be adjusted to the EXACT clearance. Find out from the instruction book you received with your car what the exact clearance is for your engine. If you have lost your book, write the maker of your car and request another copy. He will be pleased to supply you with one providing you give the year and model of your car. On an engine where the valves are arranged at the side of the cylinders, the clearance is checked between the bottom of the valve stem and the top of the tappet. On an overhead valve engine, the clearance is checked between the top of the valve stem and the bottom of the rocker arm. The illustration shows clearly the point where the clearance is checked on both types.

To check the clearance, both of the valves in the cylinder must be closed. Take out the spark plug and lay it on top of the cylinder with the wire attached, then crank the engine slowly with the hand crank. As soon as you notice a spark at the points of the plug stop, for then the valves will be in the correct position to check the clearance. If possible use a feeler gauge. You can buy one very cheaply at any hardware store. If none is available, the following will serve as a guide. A sheet of newspaper is about .003 inch thick, a Gillette razor blade is .006 inch thick, while a government post card is just about .010 inch thick. Great care must be exercised in setting the valve clearance to the exact limits recommended by the instruction book of your car. If you do not feel absolutely confident you can make this adjustment properly, do not attempt it, but have it done by a competent mechanic. If the adjustment is set TOO CLOSE, when the valve heats up and expands, it cannot close tightly on its seat and leaks badly. This is also the reason why some engines are hard to start and why valves require grinding in very frequently. If the adjustment is TOO GREAT, the valves will set up a noisy clicking, but it is better to have them with a little more clearance than not enough. If the valves are correctly adjusted, there may be a slight clicking sound when the engine is cold, but it will disappear when the engine is warmed up.

The clearance is adjusted when the valves are at the sides of the cylinders by loosening the lock nut on the adjusting screw, or in an overhead valve engine, loosening the lock nut on the push rod. Turn the screw or rod up or down until the clearance is correct. When you have it right, hold the adjusting screw or rod perfectly stationary with one wrench, while you tighten the locking nut with the other. After you complete the adjustment, carefully check the clearance to make sure that the adjusting screw did not move while you were tightening the lock nut.

After the valves have been ground in and the clearance adjusted, it is a good idea to test the valve springs, especially if the engine has run over 20,000 miles. After this period the springs sometimes become weak causing the engine to run unevenly when idling and will also cause misfiring at high speeds sometimes. To test the condition of the springs, start the engine, then insert the blade of a screw driver between the coils of the spring and give the handle a twist. If the springs are too weak, the increased tension will cause the engine to run a little smoother and faster. The remedy is of course to fit a new valve spring.

DEPARTMENT

AUGUST closed the summer season for the Ford Motor Company with sales of 161,587 Cars and Trucks, 29,508 more than were delivered at retail during the same month last year, it is just announced.

The remarkable increases which have characterized Ford sales so far this year, bringing them to a total of 1,212,553 for the eight months up to September 1, promise to maintain the same proportions during the fall season.

At least, this is indicated by the number of orders on hand at the first of the present month. The new type Ford cars, now in the hands of practically all dealers in the country, are attracting widespread attention.

The tendency toward enclosed car buying is growing more noticeable and in this connection the four-door Ford Sedan is gaining in popularity as the family car. This Sedan has enjoyed a lively demand ever since its introduction and now, with improvements which have come as a result of the higher radiator, it is more attractive in appearance than ever before. The Ford Coupe, which is new in design and with many refinements, is enjoying unusual popularity.

Join the great family of Ford Owners and buy your Ford NOW! Remember, you can buy them on the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan or on the Easy Installment Plan.

Out of the Blot

— of adversity, misfortune and past disappointments, Ideal Homes can be realized if you are but determined!

Plans Nos. 1881-1882

It would be hard, indeed, for you to conceive of a home more distinctive, practical or attractive than the ideal plan we are featuring this week.

It reflects a home atmosphere that cannot help but appeal and make you want to adopt it for your own.

A careful study of the room arrangement will show conveniences that offer you the most practical and compact home for the investment you will make, and after you have given this plan the consideration it deserves, and find there is additional information you would like to receive before securing plans, please feel welcome to advise with the home building editor of this paper.

WHEN the child makes a big unsightly blot on his school books or on the table cover, you are likely to give him a severe reprimand for his carelessness. But when the father or mother looks back over their past life and sees a big blot of failure—what then?

That failure may have been due to adversity and misfortune, those insidious foes of mankind which seem ever ready to leap upon us unexpectedly. They bring us severe disappointments, until at times life seems not worth living.

Now, we never would attempt to make the child's blot appear like a rose garden or a beautiful piece of furniture. But man's mistake, that is different. Out of the blot of adversity, misfortune and past disappointments, you can create a home—the most worth-while of all earth's material things.

"How can this be accomplished?" you ask. Listen, you have learned from the unfortunate past, real lessons. One of these is that rent receipts are of no value thirty days after they are written—another payment is then demanded, and another receipt is added to the unprofitable collection.

You have also learned that the landlord makes money—the renter does not. If the landlord ceased making a profit, he would drop the "landlording" business.

Now, by putting these two facts together, they tell you that THE WAY TO SUCCESS IS IN HOME-OWNERSHIP, and that disappointments are not so likely to visit those who own their own homes.

"But, you say, it's too late to begin now." On the contrary, now is the very time to make a fresh start. Now, while you are enjoying good health and your earnings will permit, is the time to make a reality of the home visions that have been denied you in the past.

We want you to appreciate fully that there is but one thing necessary to climb the high road to success, and that is DETERMINATION. Grasp it; incorporate it into your being; decide definitely that you will have a home in the near future—that you will make a new beginning now, and automatically you will be mounting successward.

Ponder this well, if you are making enough salary or wages to pay rent, you are able to buy, or preferably, build a home. It isn't necessary to have all the money to pay down on a home. A small first payment, with the balance in monthly installments, like rent—and in a few years you are your own landlord, with all the privileges and benefits which come from that desirable position.

The following organizations, public-spirited firms and individuals, are anxious that you enter the charmed circle of home-owners. They want to be of every possible help to you and have retained the services of competent home designers who will gladly advise with you and give valuable assistance in planning your new home. Address all inquiries to the "Home Building Editor," care this paper.
